

How ProjExc helped a resource constrained University to rapidly react to changing market needs.

Client :	British University
As part of a strategic move to greater student internationalisation, the University needed to establish a new Foundation Course, with limited budget and a no compromise launch date.	: Identified needs
ProjExc services :	Interim PM Resources
ProjExc worked on a part-time basis with the Pro-Vice Chancellor in order to drive through this cross-functional organisational change. ProjExc consultants worked with key stakeholders in planning and delivering the project, bringing in external expertise as needed.	: Client journey
Improvements seen :	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Preparations were completed ahead of schedule.• The course was launched on time well within budget.• All stakeholders were kept informed and held to account for their deliverables throughout the project lifecycle, despite a complex & politically sensitive project environment.
“ProjExc delivered this challenging project successfully using their multi-disciplined team to supplement our own as and when we needed it. The approach from ProjExc saved us so much time and money.” Pro Vice Chancellor	What the client said
